ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A digital multiple function processing machine is made up of a scanner, a copy operation unit, and a printer. When the user enters an interrupt copy start command through the 5   copy operation unit, a wait is made until an available storage area required for executing the interrupt copy is provided in the printer before the scanner is started.